THE WAR NEWS.

The announcement yesterday morning, in several of the Richmond papers, that a bloody engagement had taken place Wednesday, in Barhamsville, New Kent county, between Mcdiellan and Johnston'sforces, created the most intense excitement in our commulity. The fact that several of our citizes were known to be in Long-street's division, and had probably participated in the fight, greatly angmented the anxiety manifested here. It was also atated by passengers on the early train from Richmond, that a courier had reached that city at an early hour yesterday morning, who left Barhamsville just at the close of the fight Wednesday. This courier represented that the fight had been the most frightful in carnage of the war, and that when night closed upon the bloody scene, we had two thousand men killed and wounded, while the Yankee loss was estimated at 6,100. Anxious inquirios were made on every hand, and men hung about the telegraph office, as though they expected every click of the instruments to bring them further intelligence from the sangulinary field. Thus matters continued until three o'clock, when a despatch was received at this office and placed upon our bulletin board, which, upon being read, immediately caused every countenance to change its doloful appearance for one more pleasing to contemplate. It came from General Johnston, who dated at Barhamsvije, Wednesday, eleven A. M., and stated that all was quiet in the army; that the enemy had appeared perfectly contented with his exploits of Monday at Williamsburg, and had evinced no disposition whatever to renew the combat.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT FROM THE PENINSULA.

There was quite a breeze of excitement yesterday over a reported victory of no ordinary dimensions on the peninsula. We were informed on Tuesday evening that the Adjutant General had received a despatch of an affair of cavairy that had occurred on Monday, and that it was "even more brilliant than Captain Wickham's affair." but this despatch was understood to have been sent to President Davis, and a copy could not be obtained for the press. Yesterday this news was magnified into an important battle, with the most serious consequences, nine hundred prisoners taken and a most magnificant prize of artillery.

portant battle, with the most serious consequences, nine hundred prisoners taken and a most magnificant prize of artillery.

The fact is that the affair is named by General John strongs a "handsome" one, and we doubt not that a considerable triumph was achieved by our arms, although yeary much below the importance attributed to it by the wild and ignorant street remors of resterday. It appears from what can be learned that the affair took place at williamsburg. The enemy attacked our rear guard ingreat force, and were driven back to the woods about a mile. The troops principally engaged on our side were those commanded by Generals Longstreot and Stuart.

The news was magnified at different periods of the day. First it was asserted that the enemy had been completely repulsed, with the loss of several hundred prisoners. This rumor was traced to a soldier who arrived this morning from below, and solemnly affirmed that a letter from General McLaws to General Cobb was read in his hearing communicating the above information.

Later in the day the affair was magnified again; and it was asseverated that the Secretary of War had received an official despatch, stating that the loss of the enemy was heavy, that we had taken nine hundred prisoners, that we had acquired ten or twelve pieces of artillery, and that we had left on the bloody field five hundred in killed and wounded. Now, the Secretary of War received no such official intelligence. What he did receive was a despatch from General Magruder, which was written at Westover, and reached here by way of Petersburg, and that despatch stated that General Magruder had heard that such were the results of the action.

Later room the Membership of the action of the action and Monday. General Longstreet's division, about it thousand strong, was engaged with the enemy from surrise to sunset. The action occurred about a mile below Williamsburg. The fighting is described to have been very point.

A complete victory was achieved by us on Monday, but it is impossible to obtain with any accuracy a statement of its results in the amount of loss on either side, the number of prisoners taken, &c.

LATEST FROM THE FEMINSULA—A GENERAL ACTION TESTER—DAT—THE RESERV'S GUNDOATS IN FORMOM.

At a late hour last night despatches addressed to Gen. Lee reached here by the hands of a courier.

A general action took place yesterday, the enemy, with the bulk of his strength, having engaged our lines at a place called Barhamsville, in New Kent county, about eighteen miles above Williamsburg, and thirty-three miles from this city.

The courier left at twelve o'clock, at which time the action had become general. The fighting commenced in the morning with heavy skirmshing. The statement of the courier is that in the morning's fight we had reputed the enemy four times.

At a later hour positive information was received that the enemy were landing immense forces from their gumboats and transports at Barrow's Mills.

This demonstration of the enemy appears to imply a flank movement with their transports.

We could obtain last night nothing definite of the result of yesterday's action. Rumors were plentiful, of course; but we spare our readers any reportition of them. The single courier who reached here last night had ridden one horse a distance of more than forty miles. A relay of courier might have obtained news not in his office or occurse; but we spare our readers any reportition of them. The single courier might have obtained news not in his office or occurse the despatches of the courier, who reached Richmond after dark, and

THE ENGAGEMENT NEAR WILLIAMSBURG.

The cheering intelligence from the peninsula, on yesterday, had the effect of a pleasant serprise upon the community. The details of the fight are, as yet, meagre, but the brilliancy of the victory is none the less cortain. The first despatches were alightly exaggorated, being, no doubt, the first flying reports from the scene of conflict. A participant in the fight informs us that our loss, in kified and wounded, sums up two hundred and twenty; the federal loss, in kified and wounded, is unknown; the number captured by our forces is six hundred and twenty-three. The federals had appeared, six thousand strong, along a skirt of woods, a short distance from a small fortification in our possession, below Williamsburg. At an early hour on Monday morning General Long-street despatched a howitzer to the right and another to the left of their position, and subjecting them to a crossfire, which did terrible execution, advanced on their front, and put them to rout, taking the above number of prisoners were immediately puton the march to Richmond, and were expected to arrive last night.

Among the killed on our side in this engagement, we regret to learn, were Colonel Ward, of Fiorida, and Major Wm. H. Palmer, of the First regiment Virginia regiment. Among the wounded were Colonel Carland, of Lynchburg; Colonel Kemper, of the Seventh Virginia regiment. Among the wounded were Colonel Carland, of Lynchburg; Colonel Kemper, of the Seventh Virginia regiment. Among the statement given above is correct.

The fight, we have since learned, was continued on vector at Barbanasculla.

rumors were rife last night as to the real extent of our loss, and we presume that the statement given above is correct.

The light, we have since learned, was continued on yesterday, at Barhamsville, which is situated on the dividing line of New Kent and James City counties, thirteen miles from Williamsburg and seven miles from the Chickaboniny river. A courier arrived here last night, who left the vieinity of the scene of action at noon on yesterday, and brings intelligence that the light was being conducted in the mast terrile manner.

Our troops were acting most gallantly and had repulsed the enemy for the third time. Both sides were largely reinforced. The mutual loss is believed to be very large. The result is, of course, as yet undecided.

The following additional are reported to us as among the sad casualities of the late engagements.—

In the cavairy engagement on Sunday, Major W. H. Payne, Fourth Virginia regiment, it is found, was mortally wounded—shot through the neck.

In Monday's light, Colonel L. B. Williams, First Virginia regiment, mortally wounded.

TELEGRAM TO THE PETERSBURG EXPRESS.

An official letter from General Johnston, dated Barhamsville, 11 o'clock A. M., yesterday, states that the enemy were landing under cover of their gunboats near West Point. No mention is made of the imminency of an engagement; but, on the contrary, the tenor of the latter indicates that General Johnston did not expect a conflict with the enemy. He states that the repulse of the enemy at Williamsburg seems to have stopped their advance in that direction altogether.

The prisoners taken on Monday were principally from Heintzelman's division and partly from Sumner's.

Nothing is said of the extent of casualties on either side.

THE ADVANCE ON RICHMOND.

[Correspondence of the Charleston Mercury.]
RICHMOND, April 30, 1862.

The evacuation of Yorktown may be looked for at an early day. In the first place, the Yankee gunboats in York river are throwing one hundred and twenty-pound conical shell at our shore batteries from a distance of three and a half miles—far beyond the reach of any cannon we have—three of our best guns having burst during the last week. Another gun was received on Monday, from which results were expected. My informant says that seven of these great shells were fired into the battery while he was present. Five exploded, killing one man, a Georgia soldier, who was standing in the door of his tent, some distance in the rear of our batteries. Of the two that did not explode, one buried it self nine and the other twelve feet in the earth. In the next place, the Yankees have been permitted to throw up breastworks a mile long within twelve hundred yards of the village of Yorktown. Given the gunboats and the intrenchments, with their long range ordnance, and the evacuation of Yorktown follows by necessity. The Enquirer of this morning confirms the conclusions drawn from the statements made to me last evening, by a gentieman just from the poninsula, and which have just been narrated. Our soldiers have hard work in the trenches, and many sick here been smood to the roar. The artillery practice of the enemy is said to be splential. The probabilities increase daily of a decisies batte near the Chickehominy Scamp, some ten or toches miles from the city. The nearer the Observation of the contraction of the second of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the reaches will be consumed by the enemy's advance.

the Seventh Regiment Band-Spirited Scene at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, &c.

At a late hour last evening a great number of people were gathered together outside the Fifth Avenue Hotel on the sidewalks and in Madison park, to witness the serenade by the Seventh regiment band, in hour of the accomplished wife of our gallant young chieftain, Gon McCiellan. The night was extremely mild and pleasant and overything conspired to make the affair pass of agreenbly. The scene inside and outside the hotel was therefore quite enlivening. Most of the members of the National Guard were present, accompanied by ladies, and people, while the balcony and windows were equally National Guard were present, accompanied by ladies, and the corridors of the hotel were literally crammed with people, while the balcony and windows were equally crowded. On the carriage way just in front of the grand outrance a spicious platform for the musicians was litted up with every convonience—chairs, music stands and gas light being furnished in abundance.

Like most affairs of the kind, the serenaders were not up to time. Ten, half-past, eleven, and hulf-past eleven arrived, but no musicians made their appearance. To add to the dissatisfaction, it was reported that in the early part of the evening the band of the Sevenity-first regiment would serenade Mrs. McClellan on their return from East New York; but up to midnight no indication of such an occurrence took place. How the rumor spread we could not ascertain, but great disappointment was occasioned by it, as many of those in attendance expected the double trust of two seronades in one evening. At length, about a quarter to twelve, the Seventh regiment band came up and took their places on the platform, while Colonel Lafferts repaired to the reception room of Mrs. McClellan, to notify her that the seronaders were in att mdance. All eyes were instantly directed to the windows where it was expected she would show herself, but after a provoking delay, instead of Mrs. McClellan, Colonel Lafferts appeared and waved his handkerchief as a signal for the music to begin. The band struck up "The Red, White and Bine" with great spirit, which was enthusiastically applauded by the listeners.

The "Serenade from Don Pasquale" and the "Sounds of Spring Pelka" were next performed in a splendiel manner, and when the music of these pieces had just ceased to flow, Mrs. McClellan, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Marcy, appeared in person at the window, and was received with a shout of wild joy that could be hard for blocks around. Cheer followed cheer, swelling londer and louder, until it almost seemed the roar would never cease, joe enthusiastic were the populace. An Am

The cause of the gathering was the exhaustion of the relief fund placed. men were laboring under the intensest excitement, and clamored for assistance in the most noisy manner, although repeatedly told that the money voted for their relief had been all distributed. The poor creatures, some of whom had infants in their arms and seemed to be really in want, would not listen to reason, and the more they were argued with the more boisterous and noisy they became. Some demanded an interview with the Mayor, and urged the rest to march into his office for that purposs. The usual quiet and order of that office were somewhat disturbed by the Babel of jabbering, complaining, threatening and crying, to which the women in their excitement gave vent. Mayor Opdytak kindly came out to reason with his visitors, and addressed them in the most courteous and feeling manner, explaining that the Compiroller's funds had run out, and that further relief was out of the question until a new appropriation should be made by the Common Council. He regretted, he said, their sufferings, but haid out pe hope that the Corporation would take any further steps to felieve them. The Mayor then rotired, leaving his visitors quite as disastished as before his appearance. The women were quite fierce in their threats, and some endeavored to break through the door of the Mayor's private room, with the view, they said, of getting "a civil answer." The police were obliged to interfere and eject the women from the room by the use of a little physical force. Up to one o'clock the excitement continued, though swertal of the women had left after the interview with the Mayor. We understand that this female demonstration was occasioned by some malicious party inserting the annexed call in some of yesterday merning's papers.—

UDOLPHO WOLPHS LIQUORS—AN IMPORTANT ARBANGEMENT.

IFrom the New York Atias.

The letter appended, addressed by some of the ablest physicians in this city to Mr. Udolpho Woite, the proprietor of the ceiebrated Aromanic Scheeidam Schnappa, will explain ita-if. The noxious quality of many of the liquors in the market, and the thorough purity of those imported by Mr.
Wolfe are equally well known; and all can understand the propriety of the request made by the physicians, that depots for the sale of his pure liquors may be established in different aeris of the city. Among the signers, as will be acco, are Dr. B. J. Raphael, the celebrated Professor of Surgery in the New York Medical College; Dr. Valentine Mott, Dr. Carnochan, Dr. Sayre and others of correspondingly responsible name. By a card in another part of this paper, the piacoss for the sale of the liquors, established under this auggestion, may be seen; and the movement is an important one, teading as it does to supply pure liquors in all parts of the city. The letter referred to is as follows:

As HIFORTANT COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Udolpho Wolfe, noted for his importations of pure wines and inquore, received from leading sentences on the medical profession a letter urging hinto sect respectable the city assents for such wases, brandles, gins or other liquors as they should thing proper to prescribe. Among those who urged the request on Mr. Wolfe will be found the names of Mott, Carnochan and B. J. Raphael. The Suggestion was immediately acted on; and, as will be seen by reference to the cart in the "Business World" Bepartment of to-day's paper, a number of the most prominent druggists have been selected as agents. To show the estimation in which the facuity hold the importations of Mr. Wolfe, we append their notes to him.—New York Disquath.

MRS. OLIPHANTS NEW NOVEL The New Volume

HARPER & BROTHERS, Franklin square, New York, Publish this day.—

APTAIN BURTON'S CITY OF THE SAINTS. The City of the Saints; and Across the Rocky Mountains to California. By Captain Bichard F. Burton, Fellow and Gold Medalist of the Royal Geographical Societies of France and Engand; H. M. Consul in West Arrica; author of "The Lase regions of Cantra's Africa." With Maps and numer-

Carson valley, California, should be read in the pages of the book. Not only are they stamped with the verisimilitude of life, and the stront impressions of things committed to paper on the ajot; but their variety, rapidly of six essien, and freshness, make the work more readable than a romance. But its acceptableness does not end here. It is crowded with valuable topographical details, among which we may quote an emigrant a timerary, showing the distances between the camping places, the several mail stations where miles are changed, the hours of travel, the character of the mails, the facilities for obtaining waiter, wood and grass on the whole, oute, arranged in a tabular form. These particulars may vie in minuteness and copiousness with the Paterson of Mogi's road books of our earlier days. "". As a whole, this book in by far the best account of the City of the Saints, and the dwellers therein, that has yet issued from the press.—London Merriae. The Last OF THE MORTIMERS.
